

LiberUp terms of service

Rules for the website, accounts and software sales. These Terms coordinate the LiberUp contractual documents.

Version: 2.9-draft-2026-10-23 | Updated: 2026-10-23

Planned effective date: 2026-10-27

DRAFT: Draft for approval. Effective date: 2026-10-27. This version incorporates facts available on 21 October 2026 but requires completion of the identified checks and company approval. It does not amend earlier contracts or activate sales or renewals. Final publication will carry its actual effective date and a separate version identifier.

1. Provider and contact

The provider and seller is LIBERUP SPÓŁKA Z OGRANICZONĄ ODPOWIEDZIALNOŚCIĄ, UL. OZORKOWSKA 13A, 95-100 ZGIERZ, Poland; KRS 0001262265, NIP 7322232375, REGON 54553560900000, share capital 5 000 zł. General enquiries, technical support, account and billing matters: support@liberup.pl; complaints, withdrawal and privacy: support@liberup.pl. Business and marketing cooperation, offers and business proposals for LiberUp: contact@liberup.pl. Corporate administration and finance: general@liberup.pl. The correspondence address is the registered address.

Registry court: SĄD REJONOWY DLA ŁODZI ŚRÓDMIEŚCIA W ŁODZI, XX WYDZIAŁ GOSPODARCZY KRAJOWEGO REJESTRU SĄDOWEGO. Telephone: +48 533 156 135. This number supports contract-related contact; technical diagnostics are handled by email under the Support rules.

2. Scope and customers

The offer targets Poland, including businesses and consumers. A tax number alone does not remove protection available to sole traders for contracts without a professional character. "Protected customer" means a consumer and a sole trader to the extent protected by law. "Customer" is the contracting party, which may differ from the individual operating the Account.

A Product is an application identified in the order; a bundle contains the listed Products. The Account supports purchasing and management; the Library provides installers. A subscription grants paid access for a defined term. The current offer consists solely of subscriptions, without a trial. Demonstrations describe the release shown. The statutory relevance of previews and public assurances to product conformity is preserved. The launch offer is limited to LiberUp JPK_VAT; previews of other applications and bundles do not mean they are on sale or included in this purchase.

Where the contract does not establish its professional or non-professional character, an individual running a business may voluntarily clarify it no later than contract conclusion. We do not make purchase conditional on an additional declaration about this. Selecting "Business", providing a tax ID or making no declaration does not waive statutory protection (Consumer Rights Act, Article 7aa(1)–(2)).

3. Documents forming the contract

The Terms govern common matters. The EULA governs software use, devices and updates. Subscription and payment rules govern billing. Complaints and withdrawal explain remedies. Support rules govern contact and diagnostics. The Product page and order summary specify scope, requirements, price, term and device allowance.

Mandatory law prevails. Individually agreed terms and recorded order parameters prevail within their scope without overriding statutory protection. A specific document supplements these Terms only on its subject. Privacy, cookies and accessibility documents provide information and do not consent to reduced rights. Liability is limited only under section 11 of these Terms.

Documents are available free of charge in HTML and PDF before purchase. Each version is identified and the version applicable to an order is retained. Switching language does not amend the contract. Polish and English versions are intended to convey equivalent terms; discrepancies cannot reduce a protected customer's rights.

The JPK_VAT product specification, application privacy notice and safety instructions are available in the Legal centre. A new order preserves the offer description and applicable product-specification version. Historical content is not replaced with the current version. If the original document cannot be identified unambiguously, the case requires review without inventing customer consent.

4. Account and security

Accounts are free and require an email address, verification and a protected password. The Account contract is formed on completion of registration. Accurate details are needed to assign purchases. A person acting for a business must be authorised; operating an Account does not make a company president personally liable for its debts.

Unlawful content, impersonation, account compromise, activation bypass and interference are prohibited. Technical rate limits protect the service and do not cap valid complaints. Reporting compromise or recovering access requires proportionate verification, without requesting passwords or banking credentials.

5. Ordering and delivery

Before purchase, the Customer receives information on functionality, compatibility, requirements, term, gross price in PLN, devices, renewal method and withdrawal. The website needs a current browser, JavaScript, Internet access and essential cookies. Application requirements appear on its Product page; do not purchase for an unsupported system.

The Customer reviews and corrects the order and uses a button clearly indicating an obligation to pay. The paid contract is formed upon payment confirmation and acceptance for fulfilment. Confirmation includes order terms and applicable documents on a durable medium. An unconfirmed transaction does not create a paid licence. Unresolved charges should be reported for investigation. Payment confirmation, contract confirmation and a sales invoice are separate documents. If contract confirmation is missing, check the order archive and contact LiberUp; do not pay again solely because the email has not arrived.

Delivery consists of assigning a licence and making the installer available in the Library without undue delay after payment confirmation, unless the offer specifies an agreed date. Announcing a launch does not make an unfinished Product available. Remedies for failure to supply are described in the complaints procedure.

6. Access term and renewals

Terms are 1, 3 or 12 months, with the same functionality for the selected Product. Term calculation, additional purchases, manual payment, optional automatic renewal, price changes and bundles are governed by the Subscription and payment rules. Automatic renewal requires a separate choice and a working payment method; accepting these Terms does not activate it.

Expiry blocks further use of the application but does not remove rights to properly created and saved outputs. LiberUp does not hold the user's local files; exports and backups should be made before access ends.

7. Updates and product retirement

The EULA governs updates, releases and withdrawal of unsafe installers. Using an older release alone does not invalidate a complaint. End of development or support is announced at least 30 days in advance. Ending sales and renewals does not shorten paid periods.

LiberUp performs existing contracts through their paid terms or arranges or applies a legally permitted termination with settlement of the unperformed part. Licences are not automatically switched off 30 days after an announcement. Changes beyond maintaining conformity require a contractual basis and compliance with statutory information duties and customer rights.

A change not needed to maintain conformity is permitted for continuous supply only for a justified reason: a change in binding law or documented MF/KSeF specifications, the need to remove a security threat, or the end of support for a technical dependency requiring a replacement that preserves the agreed functions. The change must be proportionate, clearly communicated and free of additional cost to a protected purchaser. This does not authorise arbitrary removal of paid functionality. This ground does not permit changes to content supplied on a one-off basis.

If such a change significantly and negatively affects access or use, we provide its description, date and information about rights on a durable medium sufficiently in advance. A protected purchaser may terminate without notice within 30 days of the change or notification, whichever is later, with settlement under Article 43o. This right does not arise if the purchaser can retain the conforming supply unchanged at no extra cost (Articles 43p–43q of the Consumer Rights Act).

8. Suspension and Account closure

Material breach or abuse may lead to proportionate restrictions, normally after at least 24 hours' notice explaining the reason and allowing clarification. Immediate intervention is permitted for security, stopping active abuse or legal obligations. Restrictions last only as long and as widely as necessary. Appeals: support@liberup.pl. Mistaken suspension requires restoration and appropriate settlement.

The Customer may end the free Account service. Permanent closure requires informed confirmation: it ends future renewals and access to assigned licences. It differs from merely disabling automatic renewal. Due refunds, complaints and claims remain available. Data is deleted or anonymised subject to the exceptions and retention in the Privacy policy; encryption alone is not deletion.

Before closing the Account, download contract archives and any installers you need. After closure, a retained contract copy can be requested at support@liberup.pl following proportionate verification. Account closure is not automatically withdrawal from every earlier contract or a refund request; settlement follows the applicable termination basis. Offline device access ends no later than expiry of the previously issued grant under the EULA.

9. Complaints, withdrawal and support

The Complaints and withdrawal policy forms part of this package and explains reporting defects, failure to supply, remedies and withdrawal. Its form is optional. Support rules specify initial response targets and safe samples. Support hours do not shorten statutory deadlines.

A subscription extension for a LiberUp outage is an additional remedy under the Support rules, not the exclusive remedy. Applicable rights to conformity, price reduction and withdrawal remain unaffected.

10. Nature of software and general liability

The applications assist work; they are not accounting services, tax advice or a guarantee that an authority will accept a document. Customers are responsible for their authority to use data, input, backups and assessment of results for their purpose. This does not excuse LiberUp's own defects or obligations.

Failure of KSeF or another external service is not itself a LiberUp defect. Correct error handling, warnings about incomplete results and LiberUp's own actions remain relevant. Incomplete summaries must not be presented as complete. Liability to protected customers is governed by law; the limit below does not apply to them.

11. Damages cap for ordinary B2B only

Only for a business customer who does not benefit from consumer protection for the contract, LiberUp's aggregate damages liability per incident is limited to the greater of: (a) net fees paid for the affected Product or bundle in the 12 months preceding the incident; or (b) the annual equivalent of its current net fee. The equivalent is the actual monthly fee × 12, quarterly fee × 4 or annual fee × 1. The current fee means the contractual fee for the affected product or bundle at the time of the incident, without applying a later price-list change.

An incident is an event or related events with the same cause; independent causes are not grouped. The entire affected bundle forms the basis. For several separately purchased Products affected by one incident, their bases are added without counting any fee twice. This is a per-incident cap, not an annual aggregate cap.

The cap does not cover intentional misconduct, gross negligence, personal injury, repayment of undue charges, settlement of unperformed services or rights which cannot lawfully be limited. It does not restrict third-party rights or liability under Article 82 GDPR. It does not separately exclude lost profits. Other requirements concerning liability, damage and causation are assessed under applicable law.

12. Changes and disputes

Changes may result from legislation, security requirements, website functionality or payment methods, only to the extent justified by that reason. They do not retroactively amend paid parameters. For ongoing contracts, LiberUp provides the text, reason, date and available rights on a durable medium with appropriate notice, at least 30 days, unless mandatory law or necessary action against a documented threat requires earlier action; we then notify without delay and preserve statutory rights. Where consent is needed, silence does not replace it. Future renewal price changes follow the separate subscription procedure.

Polish law applies subject to the customer's mandatory protection. Jurisdiction follows applicable law without imposing LiberUp's local court on consumers. Out-of-court options appear in the complaints procedure. Invalidity of one provision does not invalidate the rest where the contract can continue.
